Abstract

Congratulatory Letters from Dignitaries for the 10th Anniversary of the Cherry Blossom Festival Performances, with Summaries in Japanese Translation.

1. 日本総領事 草賀純男氏

Ambassador and Consul General, Consulate General of Japan

With great pleasure, I extend my warmest congratulations to Tamagawa University’s Taiko Drumming and Dance Troupe on their 10th anniversary tour of the U. S.

These gifted students from one of Japan’s foremost performing arts academies have brought the delightful traditions of Japanese taiko drumming and folk dancing to the eastern coast of America each year. Their audiences in New York, Philadelphia, and Washington, D. C., among other places, have steadily grown, eagerly anticipating Tamagawa University’s lively and earnest performances. These have served to unify the Japanese and American people in the spirit of cultural appreciation time and time again.

For many here, the troupe’s rapturous drumming and beautiful whirlwind of dances during Sakura Matsuri season mark the full bloom of cherry blossoms. I personally look forward to the Tamagawa University group’s upcoming performance at the Subaru Cherry Blossom Festival, an annual event of springtime grandeur, organized by the Japan America Society of Greater Philadelphia.

I wish the Taiko Drumming and Dancing Troupe of Tamagawa University another wonderful performance today, a continuation of its decade-long tradition of excellence. And for all the group’s graduates, I wish them the best and brightest futures in the years ahead!
Governor, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

It is my pleasure to congratulate Tamagawa University’s Taiko and Dance Group and the Department of Arts on the 10th anniversary of their annual performance tour in the United States.

For the past 10 years, the Taiko and Dance Group has demonstrated a commitment to artistic excellence and has enriched our communities through its outstanding performances. I commend the group for their passion and dedication to the performing arts. It is my hope that they will continue to inspire and entertain residents of the Commonwealth and others around the world for years to come.

As Governor, and on behalf of all Pennsylvanians, I am pleased to congratulate Tamagawa University’s Taiko and Dance Group on the occasion of its 10th anniversary. Please accept my best wishes for an enjoyable and memorable celebration and for continued success in the future.

Mayor, City of Philadelphia

Greetings!

It gives me great pleasure to congratulate Tamagawa University Taiko Drum and Dance Group on the 10th Anniversary of the United States tour of Tamagawa University’s Department of Performing Arts and express my appreciation to Professor Isaburoh Hanayagi, the talented performers, staff, and students of Tamagawa University who have made this great cultural exchange possible.

Since the first tour in 2003, the Taiko Drum and Dance Group has brought hundreds of accomplished student-performers to the East Coast for what has become an annually anticipated event throughout the Philadelphia region. Each year, as spring approaches, we look forward to the opportunity to renew our friendship with the Tamagawa students as they take part in the annual Subaru Cherry Blossom Festival.

For a decade now, Philadelphia audiences have enjoyed this exciting, costumed spectacle of dance and dramatic drum performance. The value of the bonds formed with area educational institutions, including the University of the Arts, Swarthmore College, Haverford College, West Chester University, Ursinus College, and the University of Pennsylvania, are immeasurable. In fact, this compelling introduction to Japanese culture has inspired the formation of four Philadelphia-based taiko drum groups.

On behalf of the City of Philadelphia, I commend the Tamagawa University for sending their Taiko Drum and Dance Group to our City for ten years and look forward to their return and the continuation of the treasured friendship that has been enjoyed over this past decade.

Executive Director, Japan America Society of Greater Philadelphia

On behalf of the Japan America Society of Greater Philadelphia, I would like to congratulate Tamagawa University on the 10th anniversary of the annual performance tour to the United States.

Ten years ago in 2003, I requested Tamagawa University's Performing Arts Department participate in the annual Subaru Cherry Blossom Festival of Greater Philadelphia. Since then Tamagawa Taiko and Dance Group of over thirty students performed each spring at various institutions in the Philadelphia region.

Over the years, Tamagawa group became the center piece of Sakura Sunday, the largest outdoor event during the Subaru Cherry Blossom Festival, which attracts over 10,000 attendees each year. Their world-class performances have certainly earned media attention including local television coverage.

We certainly look forward to welcoming the Group many years to come. It is now unthinkable to plan Philadelphia's cherry blossom festival without the sound of thundering taiko drumming and energetic vibrant dancing.

Executive Director, The Japan-America Society of Washington DC

On behalf of the members and board of trustees of The Japan-America Society of Washington DC, we would like to congratulate Tamagawa University in their 10th anniversary celebration of their annual performance tour to the United States.

For over 55 years, The Japan-America Society of Washington DC has had the mission to educate the Washington, DC Metropolitan area about Japanese culture. The support that Tamagawa University’s Department of Arts gives to our Society has been a huge assistance to help us with our mission. The hard work the students put into their performance each year has been well received, and is always one of the most popular attractions at Sakura Matsuri – Japanese Street Festival.

Japan-America Society of Washington DC looks forward to a long continued tradition of hosting Tamagawa University students, and working together to promote and educate the Washington DC area about the wonderful things Japan has to offer. The Tamagawa University and Japan-America Society of Washington DC’s relationship is an anchor to the bond of friendship residing in the long-standing Japan-US connection.

Thank you very much for the many years of support, and we hope for many more to come.

Letters from Dignitaries for the 10th Anniversary of the Cherry Blossom Festival Performances

The world-class performances from Tamagawa University Taiko Drumming and Dance Troupe have earned increased media attention over the years, including local television coverage. Notably, photographs have been printed on multiple occasions in one of the nation’s and region’s most visible newspapers, The Washington Post.

The Tamagawa University Taiko Drumming and Dance Troupe’s visit and participation is an exciting annual tradition that we hope continues for many years to come. The National Cherry Blossom Festival is proud to have your participation.

President, Swarthmore College

It is with great pleasure that I acknowledge the significant contribution of Tamagawa University’s Department of Arts and its students to our artistic and cultural environment, specifically within our Departments of Music and Dance, Modern Languages and Literatures, and Art. Moreover, I am aware of the broad exposure across the Northeast region the Tamagawa Dance and Taiko Ensemble has enjoyed, performing for thousands of audience members over the past ten years in important theaters such as the Kennedy Center in Washington D. C. and universities in Philadelphia, New York, and Boston. Tamagawa Dance and Taiko is also an important component of Philadelphia’s Cherry Blossom Festival, a very popular event attracting up to 80,000 spectators, sponsored by the Japan America Society of Greater Philadelphia.

And closer to home, I am happy to say how successful the annual Tamagawa Dance and Taiko performances have been in concerts here at Swarthmore over the past decade. Beginning with Tamagawa's very first performance, all concerts have sold out at our Lang Concert Hall. Over the past few years we have been in the enviable position of having to develop strategies in order to avoid having to turn away up to two hundred would-be audience members seeking a seat in the theater.

We have been proud to serve as the Tamagawa Dance and Taiko Group’s second home while in the United States and, as a “Sister Institution,” together we have provided significant cultural, artistic, and intellectual exchanges for our students, faculty, administrators, and communities. Two of our students chose to study abroad at Tamagawa, and both are now performing in professional Taiko ensembles in both the United States and Japan. Our own Dance Program’s Taiko ensemble regularly performs repertory works of the Tamagawa Dance and Taiko Ensemble. Each year, Swarthmore students from our Program of Japanese Language and Culture meet with Tamagawa dancers and drummers as part of a cultural and personal exchange, sharing ideas, making friends and pen pals, and, in so doing, promoting international understanding.

We are indebted to you for helping to facilitate our selection of a member of Tamagawa’s faculty for our Cornell Visiting Professorship. We were pleased to meet with Tamagawa administrators and faculty as part of the research and development for your Department of Arts. The beautiful Katazome created by Tamagawa’s Art Program in 2004 hangs in our Lang Performing Arts Center as a permanent symbol of our much valued on-going relationship.

We look forward to future international tours for the Tamagawa Dance and Taiko Group. Their home away from home awaits them.

Associate Professor of East Asian Studies, Haverford College

I am writing today to offer our heartiest congratulations on a decade of vibrant, successful, enriching performances in the United States. The young people and teaching staff of the Department of Arts at Tamagawa University are true ambassadors of Japanese culture. Our students at Haverford College, and at Bryn Mawr, look forward to the visit each year we host the Taiko and Dance Troupe and hundreds of local people from the Philadelphia area also come to see the performance. It is always a greatly anticipated and celebrated event.

The colors, the excitement, and the artistry are dazzling. The moves are well choreographed and the music inspires. What comes across most strongly, however, is the sincerity and joy of the students. This is what takes our breath away every time. Especially the 2011 performance, not one month after the Kantō Tohoku daishinsai, was extremely moving. The gratitude for support and the raw honesty of the still-heartbroken students, along with their commitment to put on a great show was palpable.
This human aspect is what we, as an educational institution, value the most. At Haverford and Bryn Mawr colleges, we teach between 70 and 90 Japanese language students a year across four years. When the Tamagawa students come, our students spend an entire day being with them, practicing Japanese, making friends. Here are a few things the students said about their experience of the visit last year:

The intricate—and numerous dance styles I saw! I love how there is meaning to each one.

I won’t forget meeting them at the train station and talking to them in Japanese for the first time.

Besides the fact that I will never forget the performance (it was incredibly beautiful and awe-inspiring)

I will never forget how amazing it was to be able to talk to actual Japanese people my own age to have them understand me, and for me to understand them, is a feeling I will never forget. そうして、外国語が大好きです！

I definitely will not forget the Taiko performance nor the friends I made.

I was so impressed by their commitment to the practices and performances. I think they can be so professional in Taiko/Dance at such a young age because they enjoy what they are doing, and put all their efforts into it.  The commitment is so pure and touching that I won’t forget for a long time.

Again, congratulations on the great success of this program. We offer you our deepest gratitude as well for engaging our senses, inspiring our students, and educating our community about Japanese Culture. We look forward to our 2014 performance and many years of fruitful exchange.
